On May 5, 1958 the Levelland Daily Sun News' lead story read, "A fabulous agricultural and petroleum region, which in the span of 37 brief years has sprung from the vast empty ranch country of the fading old west, enters a new era in 1958 with the establishment of South Plains College at Levelland." This year is South Plains College's 25th anniversary. Our anniversary slogan--"Silver Horizons" signifies the idea of reviewing the past, while looking forward to serving the South Plains' citizens in the next quarter century.

AT LEFT--Special Services Director James Featherston and Vice President of Administrative Affairs Earl Gerstenberger hold 25th anniversary commemorative coins.

The library serves a student's need for a quiet place to study.

No two alike

"College students. They're all alike. When they're not skipping classes, they're drinking or stirring up trouble."

Stereotyping college students proved easy for anyone who observed them from afar. But students, themselves, knew that a "typical" college coed did not exist.

Ages, morals, beliefs, tastes, and backgrounds combined in 1,902 ways to make 1,902 different SPC'ers.

Even in the obvious groups of cowboys, preppies, slobs, beauties, and beasts, one could find a variety of individuals ranging from seventeen to eighty-seven years old.

"I found that meeting people was a fun way to add to my education," commented freshman Patrice Cowan.

From the inside view, no two SPC'ers were alike.

To curl or not to curl was the question that faced many girls like Esmeralda Torres every morning.

Marcellette O'Callagan, 76 years old, proves that one does not have to be eighteen to be a student.

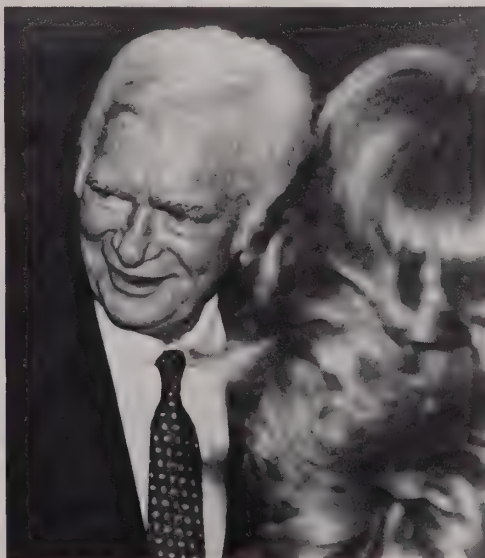

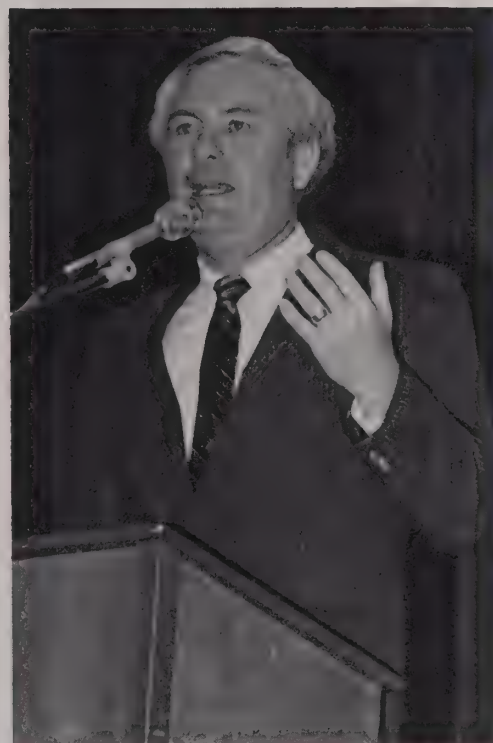

Making his first attempt as a lecturer on the college circuit, Buddy Ebsen adds a personal touch by giving autographs after his lecture.

Ebsen, Rudd make visits

After his speaking appearance on campus on October 20, State Representative Jim Rudd is interviewed by Belinda Wheeler for SPC-TV.

State Representative Jim Rudd expounds his views on six pending amendments to the Texas Constitution, while visiting the campus on October 20.

To Gong or

by Dean Lockwood

Who says lightning never strikes twice? The Gong Show, universally known as the arm-pit of entertainment, was resurrected right here at SPC for an exclusive one-time engagement.

The show, sponsored by the office of Student Activities offered cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25, which attracted every starry-eyed Tom, Dick and Harry. The illustrious panel of judges included SPC's own Janice Joyner, Connie Elliot and Michael Celli. Standing in for Chuck Berris as Master of Ceremonies was Student Activities Director Jeff Anderson, who entertained the audience with such quick-witted one-liners as, "Is this microphone on?"

Overall, I must admit "Gong" was an enjoyable show. Of course, my taste in somewhat warped. Still, it was an entertainment classic in which the key to success was to have no taste, no pride and no talent.

Using a one-foot method, Bernico Ignacio, sophomore, tries his skill in the accuracy contest.

Brutus to the rescue! Brutus shows off the catching abilities which won him the title of World Champion Frisbee Catcher.

New catching techniques are displayed as students show off their frisbee talents.

Of canines & frisbees

The campus was graced by a world champion September 21. He was like any other champ: he excelled in his field, he enjoyed his sport, and he even brought along his trainer. The big difference between this champion and any other, is that he has four feet and a lot of shaggy hair.

His name was Brutus, a two-year-old Australian Shepherd, who was the current World Champion Frisbee Catcher. Known in frisbee circles as Bouncin' Boo," he and his owner, Bill Murphy, took the world title on September 12, 1982, at Wrigley Field in Chicago. According to Murphy there was some tough competition, each dog being judged on variety of catches, number of catches, and leaping ability.

As students witnessed, Brutus was adept at his chosen task and posed some tough competition for all of his challengers. When asked about his title, Brutus gripped his frisbee a little tighter and drooled, obviously gloating over his new found fame.

Other activities offered to students that day were three frisbee contests. Accuracy, throwing ability, and creativeness were tested by the hoop contest, the distance contest, and the original catch contest, respectively.

Sixteen young ladies were nominated by various clubs and organizations for the title "Woman of the Year." Sophomore Penny Chaney, an Accounting major from Paducah, was chosen for the honor. All nominees were recognized at the Women's Recognition Banquet, which was held at 6:30 p.m. on April 5 at the Baptist Student Union.

Nominees must have shown service and loyalty to SPC, participated and contributed to student activities, scholastic ability, ability to work with people, and good character.

Miss Chaney, nominated by Frazier Hall, received a gift and her name was put on a plaque with all other previous recipients of the honor. The plaque was presented to Miss Chaney by Dean of Women, Mrs. Carol Long. The plaque will be placed on display in the Marvin L. Baker Center.

Home Sweet Home

by Devin Duncan

The few, the proud, the dormies.

It's not easy being a college student. I mean now really, the obstacles that the average college student has to go through just in the dorm would make even a marine proud. Let me explain just one aspect of the life of a typical resident of, oh, well, Lamar Hall.

The morning starts off with the gentle sounds of AC-DC echoing softly off the cold walls at 7 a.m. in the beautiful morning (courtesy of the room next door). Instantly the eyelids explode open, exposing the eyes to the harsh rays of the sun shining through the window. Next comes the argument between the inhabitants to see who gets the first cold shower. After the shower the occupants practice hand-to-hand combat for the use of the sink. Once the dressing ritual is completed, it is off to breakfast and (if not already late) class.

Seriously, that is just a small part of the the adventure that is called dorm life. There are other aspects like the life long friends, the ever so sweet dorm moms, the outrageous fun, and alas, even the studying. All of these are parts of the greatest college experience--the dorm adventure.

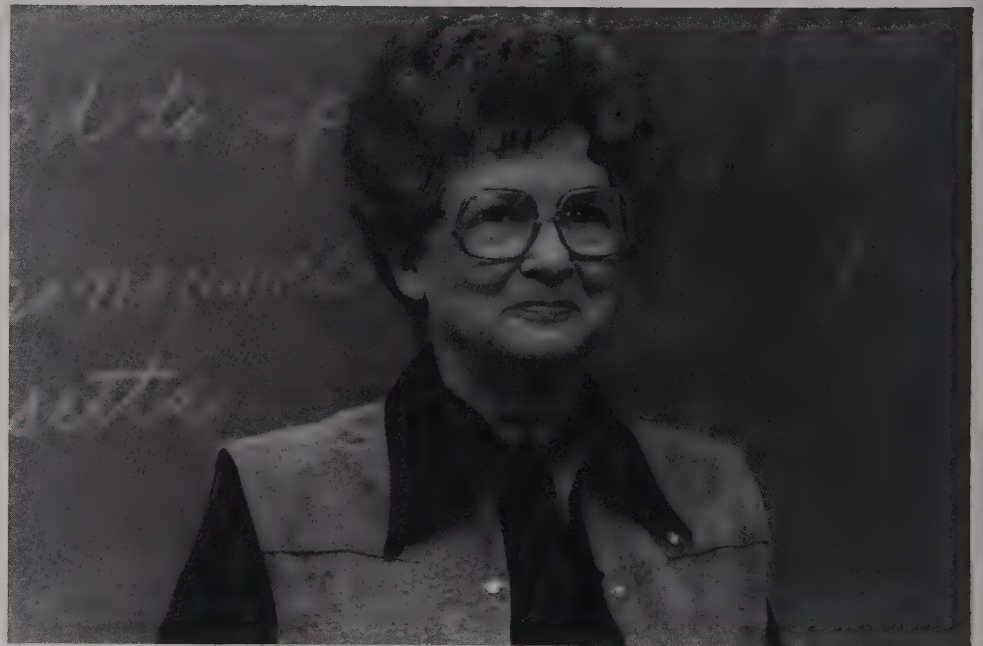

After Years of Service . . .

by J. Richardson

"Teaching has been very rewarding, besides the pay, and it certainly keeps you young while trying to stay up with the students," was Mrs. Leona Dale's comment concerning her many years of teaching, which came to an end at the end of the fall semester.

Dale started to school when she was seven years old, and had a story to tell like most people: "I went to school in a two-room building, and had to walk several miles to school." But after two years in school Dale's family moved to Winert, Texas where she went on to complete her first of many steps in education. After high school, she attended North Texas State University in Denton for three summers, and then transferred to Texas Tech where she received her AB, BA, and PhD, all in English. After graduating from Tech, she taught there for three years, then transferred to SPC in 1968, and retired in 1983.

After completing her teaching career, Dale and her husband spend their summers at their cabin at Cloudcroft, New Mexico and traveling. While not at their cabin or on the road, Dale spends every spare minute painting, which is her favorite passtime.

25 Years at SPC

South Plains College celebrated its 25th anniversary this year, and with this mark of progress, one teacher has seen the growth, change, and improvement that has been made in this time span. Mrs. Anne Bulls has been teaching music here for 25 years.

"When we started, the college had 13 on the faculty. The college has really changed," said Mrs. Bulls. "I have really enjoyed my work here, for we serve a special need that gets students into the college years." "... I came here from Pennsylvania, and the college was just a group of small buildings in the middle of a cotton patch. A lot of changes have taken place, and I have enjoyed them all."

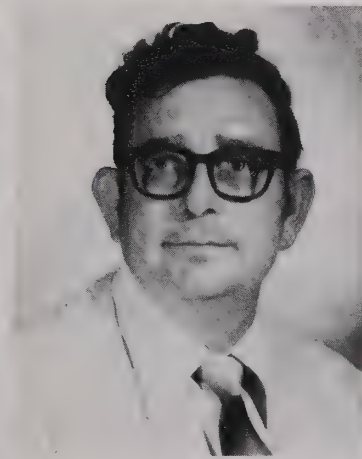

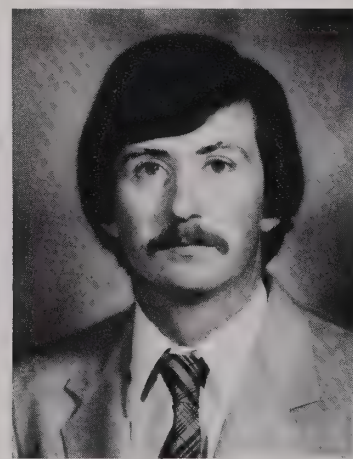

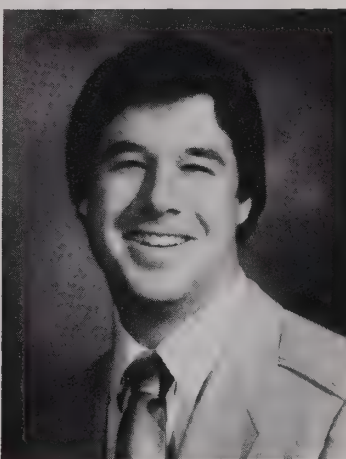

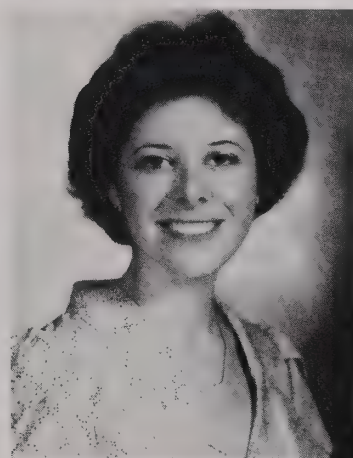

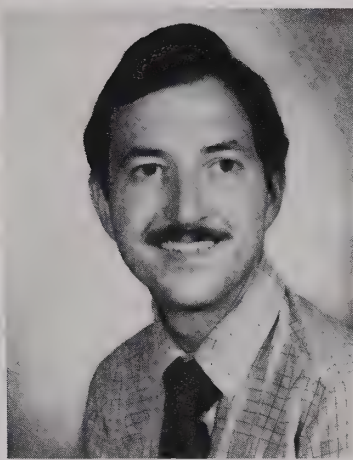

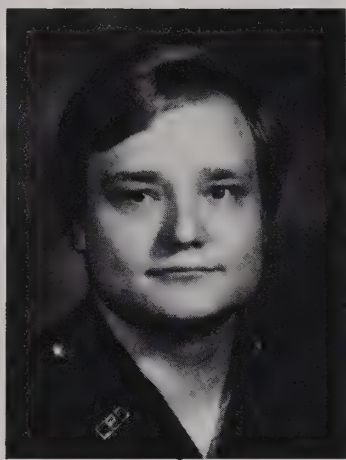

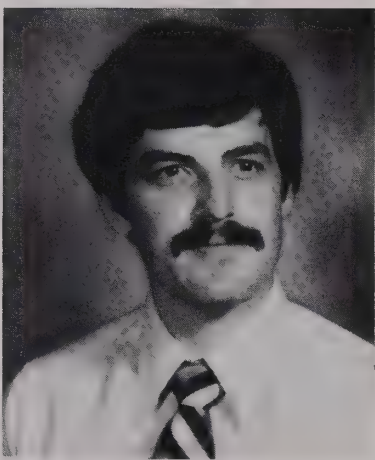

New

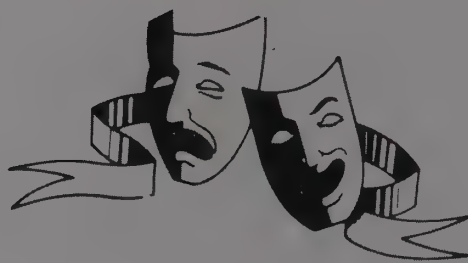

The SPC faculty has added a few more names to its list.

Scott Kantor, the new Circulation Librarian, is originally from Miami, Florida. He received his Master's in Library Science from Florida State University.

Another new faculty member is Mary Alice (Penny) Jacquez. She's a guidance associate at the Student Assistance Center. Jacquez is from Clovis, New Mexico. She graduated with her Masters degree in Psychology from Eastern New Mexico in Portales.

Guests Come to Campus

In his lecture, Mr. Krueger talked about the struggles in politics between a figure's conscience and the public opinion.

James Lattimore, seen here with Francelle Greer and Christine Fusselman, came to tell about his experiences with the Battan Death March.

Dr. Prindle is shown here doing a presentation to the luncheon group of the Sam Blair Lecture Series.

G. Gordon Giddy came to SPC for the Creative Arts Series, and he also allowed students to ask numerous questions, an opportunity that Christy Barron did not pass up.

"Rockin" Robin Packs Dome

A very familiar face came home to Levelland on Dec. 17 to have his dream come true. "Rockin" Robin Blake fought the main event in the Texan Dome before approximately 3,100 people.

To say that Blake was well recieved is an understatement. The crowd treated him to a thunderous two and one-half minute ovation upon his introduction, which came with the accompaniment of the tune "Rockin Robin," and the theme from "Rocky".

Blake fought Chris Calvin, of Nashville, Tenn., the distance for an unanimous decision win. Calvin was 9-1 with seven knock-outs to his credit, while Blake was 15-0 with 10 knock-outs. Blakes last three wins were all over top 20 rated contenders.

For Blake, the entire evening was an emotional experience. Blake dedicated his fight to the memory of his cousin Derl DeArmond and close friend Tony Williams who lost their lives in separate accidents. Blake also presented a $500 contribution to Nancy Price to go towards the maintaining of the Levelland Boys Club.

The fight was tough for all concerned. The two boxers displayed contrasting styles, which made the fight an interesting contest. Calvin was the slugger, while Blake used the counter-punch to achieve his victory.

In a telephone interview Blake commented on the different styles, "Calvin was a slugger, which I am not," he said, "so I did what I had to do to win."

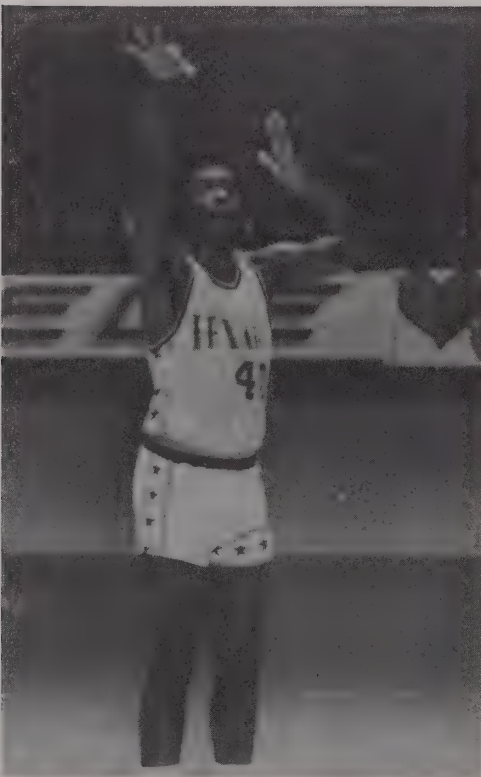

The life of a boxer is not all it appears to be. Robin spent rigorous hours preparing for each bout. "I spend about two hours in the gym a day training and the rest of the time doing road work (running and exercising)", said Blake.

Blake is still undefeated in his professional boxing career, even after his last bout with Rubin Munoz, a top 10-rated contender. Blake scored a TKO in the final round, giving Blake a birth into the top 10.

Homecoming 83 at SPC

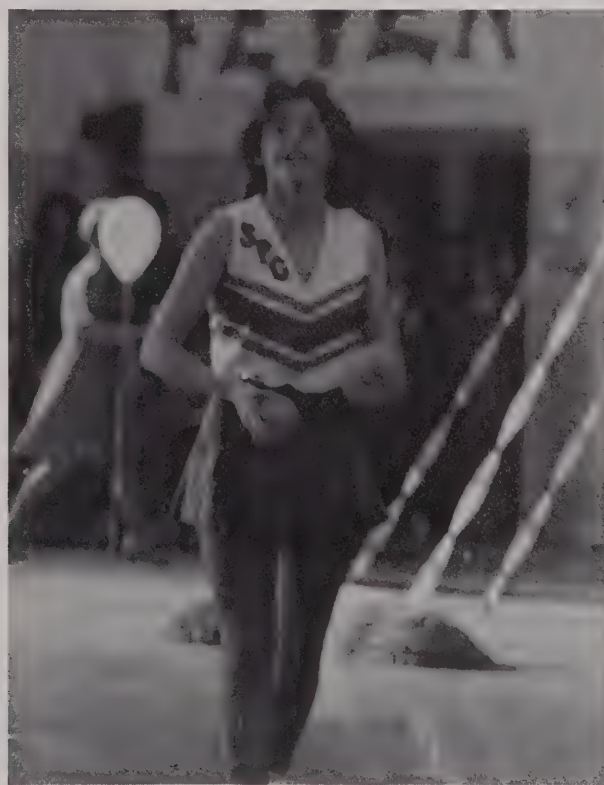

Homecoming at SPC meant a very special occasion for Loretta Martinez and Scott Williamson, for they were crowned homecoming royalty during halftime. They were among 24 other couples nominated for the honor, and presented to the student body at the pep rally for the students to vote on.

The game was with Clarendon Junior College, and the Texans pulled out a close win. The final score was 65-64.

James M. Carroll

Long-time agriculture teacher James Carroll retired at the completion of the 1983 school year after 15 years at South Plains College.

Carroll began his teaching career in 1950 as an instructor with the Hockley County Veterans School. He taught in the Estelline, Floydada, Whiteface, and Lubbock school systems before joining the SPC faculty in 1968.

The Professor of Agriculture Technology served as Chairman of the Agriculture and Industrial Technology Department at the college. He earned both his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Texas Tech, and did graduate studies at Texas A&M.

transition

James Morris

James Morris, first year track coach at SPC, was named National Junior College Track Coach of the Year by the National JUCO Athletic Association.

The announcement came as a surprise to the SPC mentor who "really never expected the award to go to a first-year coach." Less surprised by the award were those who watched several of Morris' thinclads turn in outstanding performances at Nationals.

Alan Moore, a sophomore from Hughes Springs, broke three national marks in winning the 10-event decathlon. Teammate Lance Bingham, a sophomore from Meadow was only 20 points behind Moore, in second place.

SPC also took the top three places in the shot put. Sophomore en Matney recorded a winning toss of 55-7. Glen Calvert of Flomot was second and Mike Williams of Olton was third.

Dennis Trottier, a sophomore from Quebec, Canada, finished fourth in both the long and triple jumps. Lubbock Dunbar's walk-on Ray McNeal took fifth in the 110 high hurdles. Freshman Kevin Lyons was second in the 400-meter hurdles. Overall the team finished in fifth place.

O.I.L.

"O.I.L." is not only the fifth consecutive musical that Helen Roberts, SPC professor of speech and drama, has choreographed and directed at South Plains College, but also her second original play.

"In doing these musicals, I've had some of my most enjoyable moments in directing," says Mrs. Roberts, whose directorial efforts since 1977 have included "Oliver!," "Mame!," "George M!," "Black Rose," and "O.I.L." For Mrs. Roberts, the musical is "a labor of love. There's an element that seems to come home to me," she feels.

In the eight years that John Hartin has been a naturalized Texan, he has absorbed the grit, the determination, the survival instinct of the state, particularly that of the oil industry. In this year's musical Hartin's goal was to capture that essence in the original music, lyrics, and arrangements for "O.I.L."

A small orchestra performed Hartin's compositions. The orchestra was made up of Dan Hanson, percussion; Ed Marsh, fiddle and vocal director; Tim McCasland, steel and banjo; Randy Ellis, bass; and Hartin, guitar and director.

MISS CAPROCK

By Terri Frehulfer

Tammi Renee Frehulfer, a 5'7" brown-haired, brown-eyed coed from Lubbock captured the Miss Caprock title in the annual pageant held Dec. 2.

Miss Frehulfer was crowned by Sonnya Nance of Plains, the reigning Miss Caprock, before a crowd of more than 300 people in the Theatre for the Performing Arts.

The 18-year-old telecommunications major eyes sparkled with surprise when her name was called by master of ceremonies Terry Isaacs. She was sponsored by the Press Club, and is the daughter of Shirley Frehulfer of Lubbock.

Tammi commented that she was surprised just to be one of the seven finalists, let alone win the competition. "All I really wanted was to be among the seven finalists, and still can not really believe I was chosen," stated the 1983 Miss Caprock.

First runner-up was Pamela Neal a freshman from Whiteface. Pamela is an accounting major and was sponsored by the Office Education Association.

Kathey Wilkes, a freshman from Meadow, was named second runner-up. She was sponsored by Gillespie Hall and is a Biology major.

Third runner-up was Kimberly Wright, a freshman fashion merchandising major. She was sponsored by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Terrible Tex

Keeping up with the Texan tradition, as always, is the familiar face of Terrible Tex. Even though Tex doesn't actually play basketball, he is a permanent member of the team. However, Tex doesn't limit himself only to athletics, he is a symbol for every activity at SPC.

Tex is a valuable asset, an attention grabber, but most of all, Tex is the spirit of South Plains College.

Men's Basketball

We're Number One-- the South Plains College Texan men proudly display their first place trophy that they won by taking first in the own invitational tourney, the Texan Classic. The squad defeated Lamar (Colo.) Community College 122-94, Temple Junior College 108-87, and Lon Morris College in the Championship game 80-73. Co-captains Dicky Winter and David Morgan hold the trophy and were the leaders in the action. Winter scored 66 big points in the three games to lead in scoring, and Morgan led in defense as he held Temple's Thomas Taplin to nine points after he had popped the nets for 42 the night before against Lon Morris. Terrible Tex, SPC's mascot, cheers the team on from behind.

Using sophisticated equipment, athletic trainer Michael Celli treats basketball player Phil Gates for a muscle injury. The new training facilities are among the best in the nation.

Profile of a recordbreaker

by John Hasselmeier

Whoever said records were made to be broken knew SPC decathlete A.J. Moore.

Moore, a native of Hughes Springs, broke three records at the Angelo State Fall Invitational, which was held November 19 and 20. The records he broke were SPC decathlon records in the long jump (23' 1 1/2') high jump (6'10") and first day total points with 3973. In addition, he also tied a school record in the 100 meters with a time of 10:9. This tied a record Moore had already set.

Moore also holds some records at Hughes Springs. These include the high hurdles. In addition to these honors, he also received regional honors in three events. He also received Outstanding Trackster in District.

He was also decorated in football, being an All-District defensive back. He also set another record, since broken, with a 97-yard interception return for a touchdown. The return came against Winnboro. His senior year, Hughes Springs tied the number one team in AAA, Mount Vernon.

Some of the notables Moore has met include Detroit Lion running back Billy Sims. "Hooks (Sims' high school) is in our district. My brother played against him. I also met Byron Linwood (strong safety at TCU) and Billy Olson," Moore said. Olson currently holds the world indoor record in the pole vault.

Moore's athletic career started in the fifth grade, when he started running track. "I've always been faster than the average person and I like running," Moore stated. During his career, Moore ran in events in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Hughes Springs is within 100 miles of these three states.

After high school, Moore was recruited by Arkansas Tech in both football and track. Texas Tech and Stephen F. Austin wanted him strictly for track. East Texas State and Lamar wanted him for football.

Moore decided on Texas Tech because he likes West Texas. "I used to visit my brother out there and I fell in love with West Texas," Moore recalled. "I like the sunsets and everything seems so clean and open."

But Moore soon left Tech. "Things didn't work out there and I was about ready to quit. Coach Ramsey (who was the SPC track coach at the time) heard about me and gave me a shot." Moore remembered.

In last year's Junior College Nationals, Moore finished fifth in the decathlon. "I should have done better," Moore stated. "I was third until the last two events."

Moore has some lofty goals for this season. "I would like to score 7400 points in the nationals this year. I would also like to make the 1984 Olympic Trials."

Athletic Facilities

by Greg Moon

The care of SPC athletes and their injuries has taken a revolutionary turn since last year. This turn is mainly due to the efforts of Michael Celli, the head trainer here at SPC.

Since Celli's arrival last spring, the facilities have improved remarkably. The training room has increased in size threefold over the summer. The immediate appearance of the room itself is somewhat shocking, as are the many complicated pieces of machinery that are used therein. Two of those devices are new items that have changed the very methods of care and recovery.

The first of these is the Jobst Cryotemp. This implement is used in mainly in treatment for injuries with large amounts of swelling. The machine runs cold water through large tubes into a sleeve that is wrapped around the swollen area. With the combined effects of the cold and the pressure, the swelling is diminished considerably. The increasing pressure forces the blood from that particular region and puts it back into circulation.

The other apparatus that has dramatically changed the training industry is the Galvanic Nerve Stimulator, or GNS. Coach Celli, as he is called by the athletes, has stated that this piece of machinery "Has revolutionized training, we have cut recovery time in half with this piece of equipment." To galvanize something is to stimulate or shock it with an electric current; that is just what the GNS does. This one piece of equipment does the job of whirlpools, ice and heat. By putting a negative current through the muscle, the blood flow is increased. This speeds up the healing process. The current is much more effective than heat, this is because it treats the entire muscle, not just the surface. By using a positive current the blood flow is decreased. This decreases swelling much more effectively than ice. Another advantage to the GNS is that it prevents atrophy of the muscle. If an athlete cannot function in a normal fashion, the GNS will exercise his muscle for him. This is done by the electrical impulses causing the muscles to contract on their own. These two instruments have been used not only by athletes at SPC. Several other schools and persons from this area travel here to use these machines.

Coach Celli is by far the most important part of the training program here. Celli is a graduate of the University of Texas, where he was a student trainer for four years. Proceeding that, he was a student trainer for four years in high school. Celli certainly knows his job and he has changed the perspective of our programs here. SPC is one of three junior colleges in Texas that has a trainer. Celli has certainly turned a few things around. "As far as equipped training rooms are concerned, we are better than most four-year schools," said Celli. "In fact, I'm sure we have the best facilities of any junior college in the nation." Celli seems comfortable in his position. "I just go by the old baseball player saying 'I'm just happy to be here.'"

Dr. Baker

Dr. Marvin L. Baker, President of SPC, was elected to his position in 1961. Dr. Baker had worked at Southwest Texas Junior College, Howard County Junior College, and Florida State University before coming to Levelland.

After graduation from high school, Dr. Baker served in the navy for two years, receiving his discharge in 1946. He then went on to complete his education. In May of 1949 he received his Bachelor of Science and in August of that same year received his Master of Science. In 1956 he obtained his Doctor of Philosophy from The University of Texas.

Dr. Baker believes that the trend for colleges of the 1980's and 1990's will be "to teach people how to live in the times when they're not working on the job." His main question is how to get people "interested in the finer things," such as great art and music. According to Dr. Baker we do not, yet, know how to spark this interest.

Gas

... the energy of the future

Clean, efficient gas ... there's more underground than we've used so far. New technologies, too, will mean still more. And your continued wise use of gas will mean that much more for the future.
